“INCREASE OUR FAITH.”

There is a common danger in religion to think we can save ourselves by our own good works; all God needs to do is to acknowledge what we have achieved by ourselves. God is there to hand out the prizes. That is our self-righteousness. That's not God's way.

If we see God with the eyes of faith, we will realise that God is our creator and all that we have is God's gift. All that we possess we have received. In fact, we are called to imitate God's generosity. God's grace is abundant and all we need is to put our trust in God. That's why Jesus tells the disciples that with only a little faith they can perform the impossible.

The disciples, a small community of believers gathered around Jesus, are feeling the strain of their vocation. They must be experiencing trials and uncertainties, for their prayer is brief and to the point, "Increase our faith." But they are asking for the wrong thing. They already have the faith – and it is enough. They don't need the latest upgrade, or a bigger product. A mustard seed of faith is enough: it's the quality, not the quantity that makes the difference. Hence, the absurd example: a speck of faith is enough to uproot the mulberry tree, notorious for its deep roots.

The parable Jesus gives seems to be a warning to the disciples not to presume God owes us a reward for what we do. We work hard in our efforts to live good lives and do good for others. We can't claim a reward for that; it's what the faith we have been given calls and enables us to do. We do what is expected of us as disciples and we leave the results in God's hands. God, working through us, will accomplish God's purposes. We are not owed anything by God.

When we disciples do what we are supposed to do the credit is not ours, because our efforts come as a result of the gift we have received. No matter how great our deeds, or how seeming-ordinary they are, all comes by way of gift. We have been given enough faith to overcome insurmountable obstacles, or to meet the daily challenges of faithful discipleship, over and over again, until the Master returns.

Fr Peter Toan Nguyen OP, PP
