FORGIVENESS AND REPENTANCE LEAD TO JOY

The last line of today's gospel sums up today's scriptures. It describes what the people heard from the preaching of John the Baptist, "Exhorting them in many other ways he preached good news to the people." While we can always expect good news when we hear God's Word, the responses the people made to John's preaching remind us what can happen for those who tend to the Word: "A feeling of expectancy had grown among the people." All the readings today provide even more responses to God's Word – joy, exultation, rejoicing, singing joyfully, thanksgiving, peace and expectation.

There is a repeated and insistent call to joy today, but of all people, the first one comes from Zephaniah. He opens with an exultant, "Shout for joy, O daughter of Zion! Israel, shout aloud!" What's the reason for the people's joy? God is coming to forgive them and re-establish the covenant with them. That is what we pray for and await this Advent: God's arrival afresh for us; our sins washed away; flagging spirits and routinized-religious practices given new life by a fresh breath of God's Spirit. John the Baptist tells the crowds that God is about to do a new thing and the one who is coming "...will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire."

Advent is an invitation to freedom from the debt of consumption and misplaced desires; a chance to let God construct a straight path to our hearts and lead us out of one or another prison of our own making. Advent is here now; God is coming to announce our liberation!

When life is testing us and God seems absent or very far from the realities of our daily struggle, Paul calls us to a response based on what we believe. He urges us to prayers of "prayer, petition with thanksgiving." God is close and peace is possible because, "the peace of God that surpasses all understanding will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus."

People in various walks of life hear John's preaching and ask, "what should we do?" He calls them to change their ways; to live upright lives in the places they live and work. He tells them to live honest lives where they are. Those who have power and authority over others must stop defrauding and abusing them. Once they have changed their dishonest ways, straightened out their lives, then they will be ready to receive the one who is coming.
