“LOVE YOUR ENEMIES and DO GOOD”

“Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who treat you badly.” It sounds strange to our ears since we may feel that to follow this teaching seems to be beyond our capacity, that it would require a tremendous amount of will-power and that it would only encourage those people to behave even worse. Why should we be good to those who hate or harm us?

Jesus extends love to the enemy and the persecutor. This is the core of Jesus' teaching, which He himself practised. When Jesus is struck in the face by a guard in front of the high priests, He turns to the man and asks him to justify what he has done: “If there is something wrong in what I said, point it out; but if there is no offence in it, why do you strike me?” Jesus does not allow wrongdoing to go unchecked. Love is the great power to deal with every person in an open, honest and noble manner. It does not need to control others. Love is the power of human influence that brings this world to its senses.

To put Jesus' teaching into effect is not a matter of strengthening our will to do something very difficult but to change our conventional thinking at the deepest level, to see things his way. Once we do that, it becomes much easier.

Jesus sets the principle: “Treat others as you would like them to treat you.” You do not want to be hated or struck so you refuse, no matter what happens, to hate or strike another person. “If you love those who love you, what thanks can you expect?” No, we will not react simply in the way others deal with us. As followers of Christ, we see things in a completely different way and we want to behave differently. We believe that not only we personally benefit from following Jesus' way but that others too will benefit and may even come to our point of view.

Finally, Jesus calls us to follow the model of God himself: “Be compassionate as your Father is compassionate.” Through us, the compassion of God can then be experienced by people. The emphasis is on reaching out to others rather than gathering for ourselves. “Give, and there will be gifts for you.” Life consists in what we can give and not what we can get. “The amount you measure out is the amount you will be given back.”

Deadline for Bulletin: 10.00am Thursday
