First Reading

A reading from the prophet Habakkuk

How long, Lord, am I to cry for help while you will not listen; to cry 'Oppression!' in your ear and you will not save? Why do you set injustice before me, why do you look on where there is tyranny? Outrage and violence, this is all I see, all is contention, and discord flourishes. Then the Lord answered and said,

'Write the vision down, inscribe it on tablets to be easily read, since this vision is for its own time only: eager for its own fulfilment, it does not deceive; if it comes slowly, wait, for come it will, without fail. See how he flags, he whose soul is not at rights, but the upright man will live by his faithfulness.'

"The Word of God"

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 94:1-2. 6-9. R. v.8

(R.) If today you hear his voice, harden not your hearts

1. Come, ring out our joy to the Lord; hail the rock who saves us. Let us come before him, giving thanks, with songs let us hail the Lord. (R.)
2. Come in; let us bow and bend low; let us kneel before the God who made us for he is our God and we the people who belong to his pasture, the flock that is led by his hand. (R.)
3. O that today you would listen to his voice! 'Harden not your hearts as at Meribah, as on that day at Massah in the desert when your fathers put me to the test; when they tried me, though they saw my work.' (R.)

Second Reading

A reading from the second letter of St Paul to Timothy

I am reminding you to fan into a flame the gift that God gave you when I laid my hands on you. God's gift was not a spirit of timidity, but the Spirit of power, and love, and self-control. So you are never to be ashamed of witnessing to the Lord, or ashamed of me for being his prisoner; but with me, bear the hardships for the sake of the Good News, relying on the power of God.

Keep as your pattern the sound teaching you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. You have been trusted to look after something precious; guard it with the help of the Holy Spirit who lives in us.

"The Word of God"

Gospel Acclamation

Alleluia, alleluia!

The word of the Lord stands for ever; it is the word given to you, the Good News.

Alleluia!

Gospel

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

The apostles said to the Lord, 'Increase our faith.' The Lord replied, 'Were your faith the size of a mustard seed you could say to this mulberry tree, "Be uprooted and planted in the sea", and it would obey you.'

'Which of you, with a servant ploughing or minding sheep, would say to him when he returned from the fields, "Come and have your meal immediately"? Would he not be more likely to say, "Get my supper laid; make yourself tidy and wait on me while I eat and drink. You can eat and drink yourself afterwards"? Must he be grateful to the servant for doing what he was told? So with you: when you have done all you have been told to do, say, "We are merely servants: we have done no more than our duty."'

Feast day of St Francis of Assisi 4th October

It's unknown if Francis was born in 1181 or 1182, but historians agree that he was born in Italy to a wealthy cloth merchant — right into the lap of luxury. Though he was baptized Giovanni, when his father returned from France with a penchant for all things French, he began to be called 'Francesco,' meaning, 'Frenchman.' As a teenager and young adult,

Francis lived a carefree, wealthy lifestyle full of feasts and friends, yet he knew there was something missing.

To avoid his father, Francis lived in a cave in San Damiano, eventually renouncing his family and becoming a beggar. He gradually began to care for the poor and sick in Assisi. Soon, his preaching gathered him a following, and he founded the Friar's Minor. The noblewoman Clare of Assisi heard him speak and was inspired by his message and, with Francis's help, formed the order of the Poor Ladies, or the Poor Clares.

His last days were spent dictating his spiritual testament and he died on October 3, 1226. Two years later, he was pronounced a saint. The next day, the foundation for the Basilica of Saint Francis in Assisi was laid, and he was buried in a hidden tomb in the Lower Basilica on May 25, 1230.

Carmelite Monastery of Melbourne celebrates 100 years

Origins of the Carmelite Monastery in Melbourne

In 1922, nuns of the Carmelite Monastery of Dulwich Hill, Sydney, obtained permission from the late Archbishop of Melbourne Daniel Mannix DD to establish a foundation in Melbourne. Two nuns from the Sydney Monastery, Mother Mary of the Holy Spirit and Mother St John of the Cross (Foley), visited Melbourne and purchased 'Carriear', a property in Mason Street, Hawthorn. Ten nuns formed the basis for the Melbourne foundation, and Mother St John of the Cross became the founding prioress. They left Sydney and travelled on the train to Melbourne, arriving 22 September. The estate agent, Mr Ernest Williams, and his family met them at Spencer Street Station and drove them to their future home in Mason Street.

When postulants started entering the community, the Hawthorn property became inadequate. So, during the years of the Great Depression, a new monastery was built in the nearby suburb of Kew, on Stevenson Street. The community moved there on 29 April 1929, while construction continued. It was built in the traditional Carmelite manner to include an internal cloister enclosed on three sides by living and working areas, and on the fourth side by a chapel, which was later erected as the Australian National Shrine to St Thérèse of Lisieux, who was canonised on 19 May 1925.

There is much to see when visiting the chapel. Inside, the two shrines (or side chapels) on either side of the nave are devoted to Our Lady of Mt Carmel and St Therese of Lisieux. The interior decorations in the chapel, with the exception of the stations of the cross, were completed for the consecration, which took place on 12 November 1931. Ten days later, the opening High Mass was celebrated by Archbishop Mannix, with Mary of the Holy Spirit of the Dulwich Hill Carmel—who had helped with the plans for the Melbourne foundation—travelling to Melbourne for the opening and encloistering ceremony.
