First Reading

Acts 10:25-26. 34-35. 44-48

The gift of the Holy Spirit was poured out upon the gentiles also.

As Peter reached the house Cornelius went out to meet him, knelt at his feet and prostrated himself. But Peter helped him up. 'Stand up,' he said, 'I am only a man after all!' Then Peter addressed them: 'The truth I have now come to realise' he said, 'is that God does not have favourites, but that anybody of any nationality who fears God and does what is right is acceptable to him.' While Peter was still speaking the Holy Spirit came down on all the listeners. Jewish believers who had accompanied Peter were all astonished that the gift of the Holy Spirit should be poured out on the pagans too, since they could hear them speaking strange languages and proclaiming the greatness of God. Peter himself then said, 'Could anyone refuse the water of baptism to these people, now they have received the Holy Spirit just as much as we have?' He then gave orders for them to be baptised in the name of Jesus Christ. Afterwards they begged him to stay on for some days.

"The Word of God"

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 97:1-4. R. see v.2

(R.) The Lord has revealed to the nations his saving power.

Second Reading 1 Jn 4:7-10

God is love.

My dear people, let us love one another since love comes from God and everyone who loves is begotten by God and knows God. Anyone who fails to love can never have known God, because God is love. God's love for us was revealed when God sent into the world his only Son so that we could have life through him; this is the love I mean: not our love for God, but God's love for us when he sent his Son to be the sacrifice that takes our sins away.

"The Word of God"

Gospel Acclamation Jn 14:23

Alleluia, alleluia!

*All who love me will keep my words,
and my Father will love them and we will come to them.*

Alleluia!

Gospel Jn 15:9-17

No one can have greater love than to lay down his life for his friends.

Jesus said to his disciples: 'As the Father has loved me, so I have loved you. Remain in my love. If you keep my commandments you will remain in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and remain in his love. I have told you this so that my own joy may be in you and your joy be complete. This is my commandment: love one another, as I have loved you. A man can have no greater love than to lay down his life for his friends. You are my friends, if you do what I command you, I shall not call you servants any more, because a servant does not know his master's business; I call you friends, because I have made known to you everything I have learnt from my Father. You did not choose me, no, I chose you; and I commissioned you to go out and to bear fruit, fruit that will last; and then the Father will give you anything you ask him in my name. What I command you is to love one another.'

*The Ascension of the Lord
Next Week's Reading
Acts 1:1-11; Eph4:1-13 or Eph 1:17-23;
Mk16:15-20*

evangelisation@cam.org.au.

There are a range of challenges that we need to be aware of for hospital ministry and this workshop will provide either a refresher for experienced hospital chaplains or formation for less experienced chaplains.

The session includes a presentation by Rev Mgr Anthony Ireland (Episcopal Vicar for Health, Aged and Disability Care) on the theology of hospitality in ministry, some practical tips for ministry by Very Rev Anthony Kerin (Episcopal Vicar for Life Marriage and Family), as well as input by Coordinators of Catholic Chaplaincy on the context in which this ministry is occurring.

This workshop is ideal for Pastoral Associates who minister in hospitals as well as Hospital Chaplains (Lay, Priests and Volunteers). The session is a joint offering by the Archbishop's Office for Evangelisation, Ministry to Priests and Catholic Care.

Our Parish Priest Fr Andrzej Madry CR is a member of the Congregation of the Resurrection.

SHORT HISTORY CONGREGATION OF THE RESURRECTION

The Congregation of the Resurrection traces its origins to February 17, 1836 when a small group of men took up residence on rue Notre Dame de Champs, 11 in Paris where they began to live a common life. Their leader and "elder brother" was Bogdan Janski. Janski had come to Paris from Poland on a government scholarship to study law and economics. He quickly became convinced of the need for social reform but he also fell away from his faith and into a life of licentious debauchery.

In 1830 rebellion broke out in Poland against the Russian tsarist regime but was quickly crushed and Janski found himself inundated by a flood of Polish emigrés among whom were Peter Semenenko and Jerome Kajsiewicz who were destined to become his closest disciples and collaborators.

In the course of his spiritual journey Janski had become convinced that social reform had to be accompanied by a religious and spiritual reform. He began to seek out others among the emigré population who would share his vision. Semenenko, described by one Polish aristocrat as "that stinking Semenenko who talked like a mad dog," and Kajsiewicz, a veteran of the insurrection who had, like Janski, immersed himself in the hedonistic life of Paris, were the first to respond, undergoing a conversion which amazed their compatriots.

Semenenko and Kajsiewicz studied for priesthood in Rome and were ordained in December 1841.

The goal of the community would be the renewal or resurrection of society along Christian lines. The parish was chosen as the best instrument to achieve this, acting as a leaven of the society of which it would be a part. To provide Catholic leaders, clerical and lay, necessary to revitalize the parish and society education was essential. The care of parishes and Christian education would be the apostolic ends of the Congregation.

Janski's vision, to resurrect society under the banner of the Risen Christ, was at last being realized and continues to animate the Congregation to this day.
